m24 | F. M. KENT'S.

Whig and Courier.

ROMANCE OF THE FIGURE 17.—Strawn, Jr., the Paris correspondent of the Boston Courier, writes, "There is yet romance in the Bois; there are still made in the region of the heart, purses are still emptied; but now for the last romance of figure 17. A young Roman, accompanied by a fair Parisienne is observed daily in the Bois, riding behind a pair of iron gray horses. Nothing singular in this certainly, but the panel of the caleche displays an elaborate coat of arms, with the cipher 17 raised in gold on a blue ground. A crown is likewise discovered, for M. Carradine, (such is the hero's name,) is a Roman Count. Anything peculiar in that figure 17, think you? Listen.

"The father of the Count arrived in Rome at the age of 17, with seventeen baiocchi in his pocket. From a garçon de café he rose to the position of porter, and then became a cicerone. With his earnings, amounting to 1700 crowns, he opened a small café. Selling it at a later period for 17,000, he built a hotel, which he kept for 17 years. He next became interested in the grain trade, made 17 voyages to the East, amassed a colossal fortune within a second period of 17 years, and lastly retired to Odessa. Remarking the happy influence of the figure 17 upon his destinies, he applied it to everything. All his business transactions, and all his voyages were commenced on the 17th of the month; he owned 17 vessels, and bought 17 bateaux. Strange to say, he died at the age of 77, leaving 17 millions to his three children.

"His eldest son bought a Roman title for the sole purpose of displaying a coat of arms which should immortalize the famous number. In order to propitiate the presiding genius of his father, he married a young girl of 17 on the 17th of December last. He had long searched the Champs Elysees for a site where his hotel, (in contemplation) could have the number 17. Perseverance has rewarded his efforts—he has found just such a spot in the Rue des Vignes. 17 friends dine with him weekly, and he is determined that neither his wife nor himself shall outlive the 77 years of his father." This is an over true tale.

THE POISON OF THE COBRA DI CAPELLO.—Buckland, in his "Curiosities of Natural History," gives the following interesting account of a narrow escape which he had from death by the deadly poison of the cobra:

About four years ago, I myself, in person, had painful experience of the awful effects of this snake's poison. I had received a dose of the cobra's poison into my system; luckily a minute dose, or I should not have survived it. The accident happened in a very curious way. I was poisoned by the snake, but not bitten by him. I got the poison second hand. Anxious to witness the effects of the poison of the cobra upon a rat, I took up a couple in a bag, alive, to a certain cobra. I took one rat out of the bag and put him into the cage with the snake. The cobra was coiled up among the stones in the centre of the cage, apparently asleep. When he heard the noise of the rat falling into the cage, he just looked up, and put out his tongue, hissing at the same time. The rat got into a corner and began washing himself, keeping one eye on the snake, whose appearance he did not evidently half like. Presently the rat ran across the snake's body, and in an instant the latter assumed his fighting attitude. As the rat passed the snake, he made a dart, but, missing his aim, hit his nose pretty hard against the side of the cage. This accident seemed to anger him, for he spread out his hood, and waved it to and fro in the beautiful manner peculiar to his kind. The rat became alarmed, and ran near him again. Again the cobra made a dart, and bit him, but did not, I think, inject any poison into him, the rat being so very active; at least no symptoms of poison were shown. The bite, nevertheless, aroused the ire of the rat, for, he gathered himself for a spring, and measuring his distance, sprang right on to the neck of the cobra, which was waving about in front of him. The plucky rat, determined to die hard, gave the cobra two or three severe bites in the neck, the snake keeping his body erect all this time, and endeavoring to turn his head round so as to bite the rat, which was clinging on like the old man in Sinbad the Sailor. Soon, however, the cobra changed his tactics. Tired, possibly, with sustaining the weight of the rat, he lowered his head, and the rat, finding himself again on terra firma, tried to run away; but no, for the snake collecting all his force, brought down his erected poison fangs, making his head tell by its weight in giving vigor to the blow, right on to the body of the rat. The poor beast now seemed to know that the fight was over, and that he was conquered. He retired to a corner of the cage and began panting violently, endeavoring, at the same time, to steady his failing strength with his feet. His eyes were widely dilated, and his mouth open, as if gasping for breath. The cobra stood erect over him, hissing and putting out his tongue, as if conscious of victory. In about three minutes the rat fell quietly on his side and expired; the cobra then moved off and took no further notice of his defunct enemy. About ten minutes afterwards the rat was hooked out of the cage for me to examine. No external wound could I see anywhere, so I took out my knife, and began taking the skin off the rat. I soon discovered two very minute punctures, like small needle holes, in the side of the rat, where the fangs of the snake had entered. The parts between the skin and the flesh, and the flesh itself, appeared as though affected with mortification, even though the wound had not been inflicted above a quarter of an hour, even if so much.

Anxious to see if the skin itself was affected, I scraped away the parts on it with my finger nail. Finding nothing but the punctures, I threw the rat away and put the knife and skin in my pocket, and started to go away. I had not walked a hundred yards before all of a sudden, I felt just as if somebody had come behind me and struck me a severe blow on the head and neck, and at the same time I experienced a most acute pain and sense of oppression at the chest, as though a hot iron had been run in and a hundred weight had been put on the top of it. I knew instantly, from what I had heard, that I was poisoned; I said as much to my friend, a most intelligent gentleman, who happened to be with me, and told him if I fell, to give me brandy and eau de luce, words which I kept repeating in case he might forget them. At the same time I enjoined him to keep me going, and not on any account to allow me to lie down. I then forgot everything for several minutes, and my friend told me I walked about as if very faint and weak. He also informs me that the first thing I did was to fall against him, asking if I looked seedy. He most wisely answered, "No, you look very well!" I don't think he thought so, for his own face was as white as a ghost; I recollect this much. He tells me my face was of a greenish yellow color. After walking, or rather staggering, along for some minutes, I gradually recovered my senses, and steered for the nearest chemist's shop Rush ing in I asked for eau de luce Of course I [illegible] caught the words "Spirit [illegible] Hartshorn, on a bottle [illegible] down myself and pouring a large quantity into a tumbler with a little water, [illegible] of which as I found on a [illegible] water [illegible] the shop, drank it off though it burned my mouth and [illegible] very much In [illegible] I felt relief from the pain at the chest [illegible] The chemist stood aghast, and on [illegible] what was the matter, recom[illegible] a warm bath If I had then followed [illegible] these words would never have been placed on record After a second draught at [illegible] bottle, I proceeded on my way, [illegible] very much and confused.

THE RUSH TO PIKE'S PEAK Some statements and figures are given by the St Louis Evening News which afford a somewhat adequate idea of the enormous emigration which has already been started for western Kansas and the Pike's Peak region, by the reports of golden discoveries On the Hannibal and St. Joseph's Railroad 300 passengers, all for the gold region had passed on the Friday previous to the date of the paper —and on the next day 400 passed by the same route This is only one of the channels through which the living stream rushes More than a thousand persons a day pass through St Louis by the Missouri river steamers and the Pacific Railroad, numbers of others cross the Mississippi at various ferries, in wagons, and avoiding the cities steer by the most direct roads for the western border of the State, while nearly all who start from the Southern States go up the Arkansas river through Fort Smith The News estimates the number going westward through the several avenues of travel, at 2000 per diem They come from every State in the Union but chiefly from the west—from Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa and Kentucky nearly every county, town and hamlet in some of which States sends out a company of ten, twenty or thirty In two or three months from this time the unorganized region of Colona, (the name proposed for the new Territory) will contain a population of 80 000 souls—for the rush has only commenced and will not reach its height for some weeks to come

THE GREAT ERUPTION OF MAUNA LOA—From a description of the scene of this eruption [illegible] to the Honolulu Advertiser we make the following extract

On the afternoon of our arrival at the [illegible] a new stream started some [illegible] below the crater which had evidently been dammed up by some obstruction and came rushing down with tremendous noise [illegible] through the thick jungle which lay in its track burning the crackling trees and [illegible] up for a time a thick smoke almost [illegible] from the crater This stream [illegible] broke away from its embankment [illegible] till it [illegible] the vicinity of our camp when its progress was checked, and it moved not more than a quarter of a mile an hour But it [illegible] Here was a stream of [illegible] running over the plain twenty to twenty-five feet [illegible] and an eighth of a mile in width, through its width varied a great deal—[illegible] large red boulders would roll down the sides, breaking into a thousand [illegible] he trees [illegible] It is impossible to give [illegible] of the immense [illegible] power of this lava stream bearing along [illegible] only the imagination [illegible] comparison and suppose the [illegible] twenty five feet and thus borne along by the current onward, the whole width of the river moving at the same time [illegible] breaking and piling up cones and irregular masses [illegible] But even this comparison is far below the reality—to be correctly it must be seen

A correspondent writing from Waimea H [illegible] February 4 says the burning crater [illegible] and threw [illegible] liquid fire above the mouth of the crater—I will not venture to say how high—and the fiery stream rolled onward [illegible] grandeur and terror [illegible] on the morning of the 31st about [illegible] the stream was compelled, though reluctantly to stop, by meeting the waters of the ocean. [illegible] energy [illegible] The poor inhabitants of Waimanu [illegible] the village where the fire reached the ocean were aroused at midnight by the [illegible] roaring of the approaching fire and had but just time to save themselves [illegible] of the houses of the inland portion of the villages were partly surrounded before the inmates were aware of their danger Waimanu is near the northern boundary of [illegible] and about twelve or fourteen miles from [illegible] It is of course all destroyed [illegible] from the crater to the sea is some forty miles

This eruption is declared by old residents to be greater in volume and more magnificent in appearance, than any previous one that can be remembered [illegible] for a hundred miles around is lighted up at night by its lurid fires, [illegible] By last accounts [illegible] from a thousand square miles of the surface of the island of [illegible] have been covered by the burning lava, causing a great rarefaction of air all over that space The lava was ejected from the crater [illegible] of a thousand to fifteen hundred feet high

A TOUCHING SCENE After his usual Wednesday evening lecture last night the Rev Mr Beecher presented to his congregation the case of a slave mother in Virginia who had been tried with her five children by will of her deceased mistress—but whom the heirs, evading the merely of legal technicalities had again reduced to slavery A humane slave dealer [illegible] bought them all for $1000, and had offered the mother their freedom for the same amount —at the same time allowing her to come North with one of her children to raise the money—taking her word of honor that she would return She had collected $500 in Philadelphia and now solicited $500 more Mr B called on her to stand up She rose—as white, as free apparently from all taint of negro blood, in hue or hair or speech or manner, as any member of that congregation! And her little brown haired boy was as sweet a child as any mother fondles in New York Over $300 were collected on the spot, the remaining $200, we cannot doubt will be sent to Mr Beecher early this morning — N Y Times, 31st

BANGOR MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY —No Insurance Company whether Stock or Mutual, can be safe unless it is managed with prudence and discretion If the Directors exercise a just discrimination in taking risks in apportioning premiums to hazards, and a reasonable economy in expenses the assured may [illegible] the Company will be able to pay its losses, but if in their eagerness to make a large exhibition of property insured in a Mutual, or to grasp premiums in a Stock Company they yield too readily to the wiles of the fraudulent property owner or [illegible] heedless competition with other companies [illegible] the instruction they control and bitter disappointment to those who sustain losses are sure to follow

To determine whether a Company is safe trustworthy, and likely to pay its losses we must look principally to the business character of its Directors and its plan of operation If we know these we can judge for ourselves while, if they are not within the range of our observation, we are at the mercy of strangers of whose ability or honesty we necessarily have but little knowledge, and therefore but small assurance

It is not so as to the Directors of the Bangor Mutual Company They are well known citizens Their lives, characters, business habits and ability are part and parcel of the general activity and intelligence of the city we live in In their private affairs they are esteemed prudent competent and reliable—able to take good care of their business and safe agents and guardians of the interests of others when intrusted to them Why should not the property holders of Bangor and its vicinity trust these Directors, whom they know, rather than the managers of other companies, whom they do not know

Their system of insurance [illegible] be examined hereafter

PARTICULAR NOTA BENA TO CORRESPONDENTS AND ADVERTISERS We endorse the following from the Belfast Journal—each line and sentence thereof—particularly that part which relates to the sometimes profanity of printers Illegible and careless writers little know what sins besides their own they will have to answer for when they emerge from their terrestrial jackets

We do wish that those who are called upon to write for the press whether it be in the shape of a communication, an advertisement, notice of death, or anything else could be made to appreciate the necessity of writing plainly and distinctly without abbreviations what they want to express, and leaving nothing to be guessed or inferred by the compositor Many of the mistakes for which authors blame the printer may be traced to illegible manuscript Besides this, we have known printers, in other respects men of the strictest morality, to be made profane in endeavoring to decypher the hieroglyphics of careless writers Remember there is no excuse to write legibly or good with paper and only one side of the particular about proper nouns, make capital [illegible] below the line, cross your t's dot your i's —and you will merit the printer's blessing

We will specify one other item of particular carefulness When you write a name—either of a person or a thing—just see that each and every letter of it is distinctly made, Advertisers especially will thereby avoid seeing many mortifying blunders in their notices The compositor has no corresponding sense to guide him in deciphering names—and he cannot be expected to be as familiar as a dry goods clerk, with all the new styles and varieties of fabrics which are daily introduced — When you advertise an article, see that its name is distinctly written and correctly spelt

ACCIDENT IN NEW YORK —We learn that Mr S Herbert Lancey of this city, now connected with the Ferris Female Institute New York, was severely injured by an explosion of gas on Saturday last When last heard from, he was slowly recovering from his injuries—which were mostly confined to his left side and arm and to his face

California Steamers,

Carrying the United States Mail.
5th and 20th of each month.

Through Tickets, including transit of the Isthmus, via. Panama R. R.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

On account of the numerous frauds and impositions on travelers, those bound to California are cautioned to buy Tickets at the only authorized Agencies of the United States Mail Line, as below.

By order of the Post-master General, the United States Mail Steamers will hereafter be despatched from New-York to Aspinwall on the 5th and 20th of each month.

Passengers are landed at the Railroad Depot, Aspinwall, and conveyed across the Pacific Steamers without any extra expense. This is the only line giving entire Through Tickets, guaranteeing no detention on the Isthmus.

Transit made in four hours, entirely by daylight; thus avoiding the great exposure by night in open boats to fever and ague, and 200 miles of dangerous lake and river navigation, over rocks and shoals.

Arrangements have now been completed so that the regular U. S. Pacific Mail Steamer will leave Panama for San Francisco immediately on arrival of the Atlantic Mails and passengers, thus securing passengers by the Mail Line a sure and short passage, with the greatest comfort and safety to health.

Tickets must be signed by one of the Company's Agents before they will be recognized by the Agent at Panama, and tickets thus signed can be obtained of the only authorized Agent for the U. S. and Pacific Mail Steamship Companies, in this city. C. L. BARTLETT, Agent, No. 16 Broad street, Boston.

American & Foreign Patents.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington under the Act of 1837,)
76 State St., opposite Kilby St.,
BOSTON.

AFTER an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also, in Great Britain, France, and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with despatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of Patents or Inventions—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

The Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing Patents, of ascertaining the patentability of inventions unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The Testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber, and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate. The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining Patents.

All necessity of a journey to Washington, to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHAS. MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"Boston, February 8, 1858.

"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, on all but one of which patents have been granted, and that is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGERT."

From Sept. 17th, 1857, to June 17th, 1858, the subscriber, in course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor, by the Commissioner of Patents.

REV. T. ALLEN, writing from Tavoy, Burmah, says:—Within the past four years I have used and disposed of above five hundred bottles, but am now out. Please send me a fresh supply (through the Mission Rooms) as soon as you can, say two hundred bottles. I dare not be without at myself, and there are endless calls for it, both by Karens and Burmans. I always take it with me into the jungles; and have frequent occasions to use it both on myself and others.—One night, while sleeping in an open Zayat, I was awoke by a most excruciating pain in my foot. On examination I found I had been bitten by a Centipede. I immediately applied the Pain Killer, and found instant relief. In less than an hour I was again asleep.

Rev. H. L. Van Meter, of Bassein, India, writes:—Here let me assure you that we prize your Pain Killer very highly. For the first two or three years of our residence in India we were ignorant of its valuable properties, and did not use it, but now would hardly feel safe without it for a single day. Only a few nights since Mrs. Van Meter was stung by a scorpion, and intense pain was instantaneous throughout the arm, and soon a numbness of the fingers followed. By the continued application of the Pain Killer for an hour or more, and at intervals during the night, the alarming symptoms were subdued, and in the morning only a slight soreness was felt in the finger. I gave it in a severe case of Fever and Ague, according to directions, and it acted like a charm, breaking it up at once. The Karens have great confidence in it.

Mr. W. L. Carpenter writes from Calcutta,—"Perry Davis' Vegetable Pain Killer is a very valuable medicine, and most people here that have used it entertain a high opinion of its worth."

Messrs. P. Davis & Son—Gents: The "S H Talbot," with 54 boxes, and the "State of Maine," with 48 boxes, of your valuable Pain Killer, have arrived, and the Pain Killer is sold at 10s per dozen. Neither of the lots are landed yet; but we hope they will be in time for us to forward your account sales and remittance by this mail. These two shipments are divided among four different buyers, two of whom would each have taken the whole 102 boxes if we would allow it. This is the best comment we can make on your Pain Killer. Send us frequent shipments. NEWALL, HEGGAN & STAVANS.
